Strategic Plan: It's in Your Hands

by Jim Vogl, Strategic Planning Committee Chair

Respond to brief online survey by June 7

The work of the Strategic Planning Committee is complete, and a series of recommendations has been presented to the Pastoral Council for consideration. The Pastoral Council will review the plan and make a final recommendation to Fr. Michael at its June 16 meeting. However, before the council makes that recommendation, we would like to give members of the St. Bart's community an opportunity to provide input to the elements of the strategic plan. Likewise, we would like to present a new parish mission statement that the committee has developed. We feel that this new mission statement (see page 2) reflects the identity of the parish today, as well as the identity the parish will have as the elements of the strategic plan are realized.

A Healthy, Vibrant Community

First and foremost, this strategic planning process has underscored the strength of our faith community. From the survey feedback to the analysis provided by our partner consultants, TeamWorks International, all indicators show that St. Bart's is a healthy, vibrant place. It is important to understand that the purpose of this plan is not to address a crisis, which is frequently a reason why parishes initiate this type of process. Instead, we have been able to focus this plan on ensuring the continued success of the parish in the years to come.

Strategic Directions

The Strategic Planning Committee was comprised of a cross section of parishioners, as well as the parish staff members who lead our primary ministries. The process began with a collection of your input via a survey of our community. The committee then used this input, coupled with demographic data and its own discernment, to develop a plan. The plan outlines four areas of strategic direction for our parish:

- Integration and Collaboration
- Innovation and Development
- Growth in Participation
- Engagement of Youth, Young Parents and Seniors

See page 2 for details on these four areas.

Next Steps: Feedback, Integration and Execution

Since this is a strategic plan, its content is directional. Specific execution steps will be developed in the coming months by parish staff, and the Pastoral Council will be responsible for overseeing its implementation. To ensure that the plan is not only accurate but affordable the council will work with Catholic Finance Corporation to incorporate execution of the strategic plan into our budgeting process.

But First, One More Opportunity for Your Input

Before the Pastoral Council makes its final recommendation to Fr. Michael, we would like to give you the chance to react to this proposed plan. The Strategic Roadmap document, which includes the new mission statement and our Vision 2013, describing what we hope our parish can realize during the next five years, was included with the May 17 bulletin. A draft of the ministry area goals was also included. This work-in-progress reflects how our individual ministries will put this strategic plan into action. You can find the Strategic Roadmap document on our website, www.st-barts.org, or at the Information Desk.

As you review this document, we would like to receive any input you would like to offer. We have created an online survey that you can access via the St. Bart's website. Paper forms are available at the Information Desk for those without Internet access.

We value your input and ask that you respond by June 7.

Thank you for your consideration and input. We hope that you find the proposed strategic plan to be one that will guide our parish to continued success for many years to come.

Integration and Collaboration reflects both the feedback we received from your survey input as well as the wisdom of the committee. While each ministry has its strengths and assets, the committee believes that each can be improved, and the parish enhanced, by greater integration within ministry programs and better collaboration across them.

A Mission Statement to Describe our Present, Our Future

Throughout the Strategic Planning process we were challenged by our facilitator to create a new Mission Statement for St. Bartholomew. Such a statement should not only be descriptive of our current state and future aspirations, but it should also uniquely identify St. Bart's. A subteam from the Strategic Planning Committee has developed the following Mission Statement for consideration by the Pastoral Council:

St. Bartholomew is a welcoming Catholic community united in our mission:

- to celebrate Jesus Christ in the Eucharist
- to form disciples through faith formation and education
- to provide care and support for those in need
- to seek justice for all God's children

We do this guided by faith and love in hope of eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord.

The statement highlights the four primary ministries of St. Bart's: liturgy, education and faith formation, pastoral care and social justice. It also touches on two important themes that were evident throughout this process: that many St. Bart's members value the welcoming environment it provides, and that we all practice our faith in the hope of eternal life with Christ.

Innovation and Development speaks to the changes in our demographics, the technology landscape, and a desire to apply new solutions to longtime challenges. For example, survey feedback clearly calls for increasing use of Internet and email technologies to "push" information to you.

Growth in Participation calls to our most fundamental mission: forming disciples of Jesus Christ and transforming the world into the image of God's kingdom. We must continue to strive to make St. Bart's a welcoming, inclusive community that meets the needs of all its members.

Engagement of Youth, Young Parents and Seniors reflects the desire to make participation in the life of the parish an ongoing part of every member's life. As we strive for collaboration, innovation and participation in parish life, we believe that this can best be realized by developing programs that engage members throughout our lifetimes.

RCIA: What a Blessing

by Barb Paschke

Through the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA) individuals learn about the Catholic tradition of faith, and then if they desire, come into full communion with the Catholic Church. RCIA is rooted in the traditions of the early Christians where those that wanted to be accepted into the Christian faith met with the first Christians to be mentored in how to live like Christ. They spent more than a year in study, prayer, and fellowship before being baptized, confirmed, and receiving the Eucharist on the eve of Easter Sunday.

As Christianity became more widespread and great numbers were asking for baptism, this practice was dropped. When the Second Vatican Council met they called for a study and restoration of the old practice of how adults were initiated into the faith. The study lasted for ten years and in 1972 the Revised Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults was published. However, it took many years for the practice to be adopted by the various churches.

In the summer of 1989 I was invited to be a part of the first RCIA team at St. Bart's. I accepted the invitation out of curiosity. I had converted to Catholicism in 1978 but was interested in learning more about the Catholic faith. At the time when I became Catholic, I met with the priest in private instruction sessions for several months and then was confirmed privately at the church on a Wednesday evening. I remember the church being cold and dark and the priest said, "There is no need to turn up the heat or turn on all the lights as this will only take a minute." I remember thinking, "This sure does not feel like a sacramental experience."

On a hot humid August evening in 1989 six St. Bart's parishioners met with the Director of Pastoral Care and the priest to begin the formation of the first RCIA team. It was exciting to learn about the RCIA process and after several months of meetings and study we had the first RCIA class of two adults. However, a few months into the process a third person, Lee Glover, joined our class. I became Lee's community sponsor. The celebration of the Sacraments at the Easter Vigil that year was an amazing experience. I thought, "Wow, now this is the way to celebrate the sacraments."

In the 20 years that RCIA has been a part of St. Bart's we have witnessed the faith journey of hundreds of people. Many of these newly initiated Catholics have become vibrant members of our parish giving of themselves and sharing all their unique talents for the common good of our parish.

What a blessing it has been in my life to share in the faith journey of so many wonderful people and to truly see how God works His wonders in each of us.

Our RCIA Journeys

For many years I considered the conversion to Catholicism. My wife, Celia, and I were married in the Catholic Church and we sent our daughters to St. Bartholomew School, then on to Benilde-St. Margaret's School (BSM). I never made enough time to deepen my faith or to participate in the RCIA classes until last year when two events in my life motivated me to evaluate my priorities. One was a health issue and the other was my attendance at a Catholic silent retreat. During the retreat I made a decision to commit to deepening my faith and to start RCIA classes.

Candidate Tom Threlkeld and Sponsor Celia Threlkeld

Over the years I have gained great respect for our Catholic friends and St. Bartholomew parishioners. What a wonderful, committed and giving group of people. The support of family and friends after my decision to attend RCIA was very comforting. Their support was further evident in the turnout of friends and family at the Easter Vigil to witness my confirmation.

St. Bartholomew has played a significant role in my developing religious life. I no longer wanted to be an outsider going through the motions; I wanted to fully participate in this remarkable Catholic community. The RCIA team is owed all of my gratitude for their sacrifices and wisdom in teaching and welcoming me (and others) into the Catholic Church.

Tom Threlkeld

I was baptized and received First Communion at St. Bart's. Over the years I attended church less and less frequently. My faith in God slipped over the years. I don't recall thinking much about the existence of God.

Before Christmas two years ago, I remember thinking 'What's the point of putting up the tree and buying all these presents? I feel empty.' So I went to Christmas Mass. It felt great and I haven't missed a Sunday since.

Candidate John Schleif and Sponsor Juan Rosa

After a 30-plus year absence, I worked up my nerve and went to Confession. Listening to Fr. Michael's homilies and Catholic Radio caused me to evaluate the priorities in my life. I volunteered at some church functions and gave money to the poor. To learn more about our faith I read the Catechism. I wanted to be in full communion with the church so I decided to go to RCIA class.

A few days before I was to be confirmed, I was in my truck eating lunch. Birds were flitting around in some pine trees and singing their spring songs. Suddenly I thought how empty the trees would seem if the birds weren't there. I then felt an overwhelming sense of gratitude to God for creating those birds for me.

Since that day I no longer see people as individuals. My catechists kept telling me that we are all part of one body of Christ. Now, I look at people and see Christ in them.

I can think of no better way to say this than "I once was lost, but now am found. Was blind but now I see." Hallelujah! Thank you to Deacon Rick, my sponsor, Juan, all the RCIA team members and my fellow candidates for opening my eyes.

John Schleif

My RCIA journey has been a wonderful experience. Before coming to RCIA I attended church infrequently and did not have a connection to God and Jesus. About a year ago, I started yearning for more of a relationship and attended church on a more frequent basis. I heard about RCIA and felt this would be a great group to learn more about being a Catholic and what it means to be confirmed in the Catholic Church as I had already been baptized.

Candidate Marcus Schumacher and Sponsor Sarah Coleman

After the first meeting I knew this was the place for me. I learned a great deal with the RCIA group from different types of prayer, the life of Jesus, what it means to be Catholic and the importance of the church community. I am very thankful for everyone who was a part of the RCIA group from the team members, to my sponsor and to the other candidates in the group. Without all of them my journey would not have been so joyful.

I look forward to continuing my journey with the community of St. Bart's as I continue to grow my relationship with Jesus and God.

Marcus Schumacher

My experience at RCIA has been very positive. According to my wife she prayed for 18 years for me to go through RCIA. I came to RCIA on my own after I felt God was calling me. I came to the church and was guided spiritually by Christine Ducharme, a special person in my life now. She guided me through different options available for me to reach God. I attended the Cursillo weekend in October 2008 and then joined RCIA.

I am a lucky man to have experienced the love, guidance and friendship of the RCIA staff. We learned from each other and each one of us had a different experience in the process of reaching God. My personal experience at St. Bart's has been wonderful. It is the perfect church; what makes it perfect is the people who volunteer and give guidance, love and friendship unconditionally.

We had retreats, lessons, meditation, guidance and many options to learn without judgment. We had a great Mass at the Basilica of St. Mary with the Archbishop. I didn't know what to expect when I joined RCIA. What I received was love, knowledge about Jesus and the Catholic Church, friendship and understanding.

All Parish Mass & Potluck Picnic

Sunday, June 7

10:00 a.m. Mass in St. Bartholomew Church
Potluck Picnic in the Parking Lot to Follow

Come join us for Mass at 10 a.m. in church and stay for a potluck picnic, which will take place in our parking lot on the north side of the building. Please bring your own:

- Chairs or blanket
- Utensils
- Drinks
- Dish to share

Hot dogs will be available for sale. Handicapped parking will still be available on the west side of the church. In the event of rain, the picnic will be held in the Fellowship Hall. NOTE: 10 a.m. Mass is the only Mass that Sunday. Saturday Mass will be at 5:00 p.m. as usual.

Enjoy Fellowship, Fun and Food!

See the Flowers in the Seeds

At the beginning of summer an elderly mother wanted to give her two grown daughters a small but thoughtful gift to symbolize the joy of the season. At the local garden center, she found a selection of seeds on sale for ten cents each. She bought an envelope of zinnia seeds for each of her daughters.

'This will be perfect!' she thought. 'We reap what we sow.'

The first daughter thanked her mother, yet thought, 'I don't have time to plant seeds, much less wait for flowers to grow.' When she got home, she stashed the packet of seeds in a dark corner of a kitchen drawer. She never thought about the seeds again.

The second daughter thanked her mother and pictured the beautiful blossoms the seeds would yield. She brought the seeds home and went directly into her backyard to choose the perfect spot for them in her garden. Once she found the ideal area, she prepared the soil, added compost, planted the seeds and watered them.

The zinnias grew tall and lush all summer long. In fact, they grew so thickly that the woman thinned some out and transplanted them to other areas of her garden. The flowers were large and brilliantly colored, pink and orange and red.

"Where did you get those outrageous flowers?" the one sister asked the other. "Didn't you plant your seeds?"

The first daughter blushed. "I didn't imagine a dime's worth of seeds would do all that," she said.

The second daughter's zinnias continued to grow beautifully straight and vibrant. They bloomed past Labor Day. They bloomed past Halloween. She even cut a gorgeous bouquet of zinnias for her mother's Thanksgiving table. And when the first frost finally brought an end to the long harvest, the woman cut back the plants and added them to her compost bin.

SCHOOL NEWS

Life Crusaders

by Maureen Frank

“Then the righteous will answer him, ‘Lord, when was it that we saw you hungry and gave you food, or thirsty and gave you something to drink? And when was it that we saw you as a stranger and welcomed you, or naked and gave you clothing? And when was it that we saw you sick or in prison and visited you?’ And the king will answer them, ‘Truly I tell you, just as you did it to one of the least of those who are members of my family, you did it to me.’” (Matthew 25:37-40)

How hard it is, in our busy lives, to take time to help others, especially when they are not people we personally know. Yet, these words of Jesus call us to do just that – to help our neighbors and to be generous with our time, gifts, and talents. During this past school year, a group of sixth graders from St. Bartholomew School answered Jesus’ call and gave of themselves, to the greater community, in some extraordinary ways.

Sixth grade Life Crusaders in action at Mary’s Place/Sharing and Caring Hands.

Nineteen of our sixth graders came together to form this year’s Life Crusaders. A group founded twelve years ago by former preschool teacher Cindy Bauer, this group promotes the sanctity of life at all stages of being. They realize the importance of every life, from the moment of conception to one’s natural death. Their projects focus on every aspect of life’s spectrum—from infants, to children, to mothers, to the elderly. Through acts of charity and service, this group encourages that all life be respected.

Spreading Warmth

The Life Crusaders’ first project involved collecting winter clothing for students at a Richfield school, which serves children in grades 3-5. This school is mainly comprised of Latino families, many of whom are migrant workers, and refugee families from Togo and Somalia, who had lost their fathers due to violence in their home countries. These students and their families, having only recently immigrated to Minnesota, and coming from warmer climates, did not realize the importance of warm, winter clothing during our winters. They were ill-prepared for the harsh Minnesota winter that awaited them. The Life Crusaders collected 81 winter coats, 58 snow pants, 24 pairs of boots, 63 hats, 48 pairs of gloves, 12 hat and mitten sets, and 16 scarves. Their efforts allowed numerous children the ability to go outside and enjoy recess throughout this past winter.

Other projects the Life Crusaders were involved in this past year include writing letters to our military personnel serving overseas and making Easter cards for our elderly parishioners who are currently residing in nearby nursing homes. Over Mother’s Day weekend, they sold roses following all the Masses, donating all proceeds to the Archdiocesan Pro-Life fund. Currently, they are holding a baby drive, collecting new and gently used baby clothes and blankets, diapers, formula, and food, all of which will be donated to North Side Life Care Center, a crisis pregnancy center for women.

Bringing Joy

The project that had the biggest impact on the majority of the group, however, was their work at Mary’s Place/Sharing and Caring Hands. The Life Crusaders spent one Friday afternoon entertaining the children residing at this transitional housing complex. Though initially met by hesitation and resistance, the group persevered.

Through coaxing and continued attempts at interaction, they soon had over 40 children playing tag together, working on craft projects, engaging in group games, or just enjoying a snack. By the time the Life Crusaders left Mary’s Place, they had established many new friendships and had brought a bit of fun and joy to those children whose lives are otherwise filled with much uncertainty. Our group truly made a difference in the lives of those children, even if it was for a short period of time.

However, even greater than making a difference in the lives of others, the students who have participated in Life Crusaders have found these experiences have had a significant impact on their own lives. They came to realize how truly fortunate and blessed they are to have what they do. They discovered that doing what may seem trivial can actually make a huge difference in other people’s lives. They began to think more about others, rather than just themselves. The St. Bartholomew Life Crusaders truly lived out Jesus’ request, giving of themselves to the least of their brothers. And thus, they did unto Him.

New Principal for St. Bart’s School Announced

Please join us in welcoming Lynn Volkenant as the new principal of St. Bartholomew School. She will begin work on July 1. Lynn is presently serving as Assistant Principal at Saint Matthew School in Saint Paul. Because Saint Matthew’s administrative structure doesn’t include a principal but rather a Director of Education and Formation, Lynn has experienced much of the responsibility of a principal.

In addition, Lynn has many years of experience as an elementary school teacher, a middle school teacher, a lead teacher, and a preschool coordinator.

A special thanks to the members of the Principal Search Committee who did an outstanding job over the last four months: Art Kearney (chair), Steve Hedtke, Joan Stevermer, Rick Cawood, Susan Crist, Jim DeShane, and Helen Dahlman. The care and commitment of these folks in the interview process has made an enormous contribution to the future of our school.

We look forward to bringing you more information about Lynn in a future issue of Reflections.

Calculator Drive at St. Bart's June 6 - 14

My name is Gerard Ondrey, a parishioner at St. Bart's and a sophomore in high school. Classmates, fellow Scouts and I have been working with the after-school learning program at Risen Christ School in south Minneapolis. If you're not familiar with Risen Christ, it is a school where 89% are people who are under-resourced in a variety of ways and 48% are English language learners. 96% is the average daily attendance. There is a great need for calculators—in particular TI 73's (graphing), TI 30 XII S's, and TI 15's. At the end of the school year, if you or your student has outgrown a calculator of the aforementioned types (or something similar), please place it in the labeled trunk located in the Narthex, Saturday, June 6 through Sunday, June 14. I can be reached for any questions at 952-922-0171. Thanks for your support.
